

The new innovative approach to damage diagnostics within the production and maintenance/servicing procedures in industry is proposed. It is based on the real-time multiscale monitoring of the smart-designed multilayer thin film sensors (MTFS) of fatigue damage with the standard electrical input/output interfaces which can be connected to the embedded and on-board computers.

Full article